

Welcome to my website! Here you will find material regarding research, publications, teaching, and research collaborators.

Our lab investigates how forest ecosystems change through time. We use mathematical, theoretical, statistical and empirical approaches to address several research questions related to forest dynamics, tree allometry, mortality, and the scaling of tree-level processes to ecosystems. Our research also includes the long-term monitoring of the temperate forests in southern Chile.

- About me
- Education
- Academic positions
- Check the news

My location is Room 1, Center for Ecosystem Modelling and Monitoring, on the Universidad Mayor's Alameda campus in Santiago, Chile. E-mail (see below) is usually the best way to get in touch.

If you would like to send me an e-mail (English/Español), my address is cseljatib "at" gmail "dot" com